DAVID GREENGIASS has advised that he furnished the name of Doctor HENRY LINSCHITZ to HARRY GOLD as a possible recruit at Los Alamos.

of Doctor HENRY LINSCHITZ, has advised that he is presently employed on the faculty of Syracuse University at Syracuse, New York.

Albany should refer to their investigation of LINSCHITZ under an AEAA character for background.

The files of the New York Office reflect that one HENRY LINSCHITZ of 5711 South Kenwood, Chicago, was a member of the "FEDERATION OF AMERICAN SCIENTISTS" in 1947 or 1948. There is no derogatory information re LINSCHITZ on file in the New York Office.

Bureau authority is requested for Albany to interview Doctor HENRY LINSCHITZ to determine if an attempt was made to recruit him for Soviet espionage and to obtain information in his possession concerning EREENGLASS.

ESPIONAGE - R

Re New York letter to the Bureau dated October 27, 1950.

The El Paso indices are negative regarding Mrs. FICTOR ANDERSON MENRY SUMMERFORD and Mrs. ETHEL LANE, aka Mrs. Uil Lane.

On November 18, 1950, Mrs. VICTOR B. ANDERSON, 4205
Pershing Drive, El Paso, Texas, advised that HENRY and ETHEL, described in the letter set forth in the referenced communication, were her son-in-law HENRY SUMMERFORD and his sister, Mrs. ETHEL LANE, aka Mrs. UIL LANE, who resides 626 North Alameda Street, Las Cruces, New Mexico.
Mrs. ANDERSON stated that she did not know the subject of this case.

HENRY SUMMERFORD, Manager, Savage Oil Company, 720 South Florence, residing 4201 Pershing Drive, both El Paso, Texas, furnished the following information when interviewed on November 20, 1950:

One day last summer, he and his sister, Mrs. UIL LANE, residing 626 North Alameda Street, Las Cruces, New Mexico, were discussing various Russian spies concerning whom the papers and magazines at the time had lengthy articles. During the conversation there was some speculation as to how one spy would know another, and HENRY SUMMERFORD mentioned that he had read somewhere that sometimes spies broke a bottle. After the bottle was broken one person kept one part and another part was taken away. Subsequently, when two individuals met and were able to fit the broken parts of the bottle together they knew that they were the right people. ETHEL'S letter regarding "GREENGLASS" apparently referred to SUMMERFORD'S remarks as set forth above.

Mr. SUMMERFORD stated that he did not know GREENGLASS at all and that he does not recognize the photograph of GREEN-GLASS.

MEMO

RE: ARTHUR SPRIGNAM INTERNAL SECURITY -F

On April 4th, 1951 a photograph of the captioned subject was exhibited to DAVID GR.ENGLASS and he recognized it as an individual named ARTHUR who had come to the apartment occupied by DAVID GREENGLASS and ETHEL GREENGLASS sometime during the 1930's on about four or five occasions. He recelled that he had played the piano and the violin and on one occasion had repaired a violin. He also recalled that ARTHUR was either an associute or a partner in the COMO AERONAUTICAL COMPANY on 17th Street, which was started by a Negro named WILLIAMS who was an aviator and that JULIUS ROSENBERG and MARK PAGE were also working in the COMO AERONAUTICAL COMPANY at that time.

and had a fallen out with both WILITAKS and ARTRUR concerning the business in which they were engaged. GREENGLASS statedthat he has not seen ARTRUR since JULIUS and ETHEL were married in 1939 and it may have been several years prior to that when he last saw ARTRUR. GREENGLASS was under the impression that ARTRUR is a Communist and thinks he heard some mention that ARTRUR was a Communist Party member.

the individuals connected with the COMO AERONAUTICAL COMPANY were Communists. GRENGLASS stated that he helicared that he had been bongmin in character and he had been married several times.

GREENGLASS was of the opinion that SAM FREUND might be able to furnish information concerning ARTHUR. According to GREENGLASS, SAM FREUND is a licensed electrician who did some electrical work for the COMO AERONAUTICAL COMPANY for which he was never paid and several of the members of the GREENGLASS family had felt that JULIUS HOSENEERG should have paid FREUND for this work.

on 4/16/51 DAVID GREENGLASS advised he recalls that while standing by the milling machine at Pitt Machine Products Inc., probably in September or October 1948, but possibly in the spring of 1948, he was having a conversation with JULIUS ROSENBERG and one or two others. The others were either BERNARD GREENGLASS or MORRIS ISRAEL or both. During this conversation JULIUS ROSENBERG and mentioned that the mathematics had been all worked out for construction of an atomic energy airplane meter. DAVID later asked JULIUS, in private, how JULIUS knew shout this, and JULIU told him he had learned about it from one of his boys. DAVID then asked JULIUS about the possibility of the pilot receiving radiation-burns. JULIUS said this problem had been solved by placing the pilot and passengers far away from the shielded power.

"They're all nice," she said. "Nice and intelligent. But maybe they've been fooling

"Is it so much? Say they give them 30 years. He'll be 62 when he gets out—or more. My son will be there 15 years; I suppose he did wrong and he will pay for it, but those others . . ."

She could not reach the President; now she had to try and reach Julius Rosenberg; who could tell her that there would be any softness there?

Tessie Greenglass stood up on the 23d floor of Rogge's Broadway office building and looked down on the lower Manhattan she does not often see from so far up.

She pointed to the Criminal Courts Building, and said that her son had spent a year there. She pointed to the Federal Court Building where David Greenglass and the Rosenbergs had been tried and said, "Such a lot of steps."

Such a lot of steps for Tessie Greenglass, all leading at the end to the son-in-law she cannot be sure will see her. Even if he will, it will take a court order to get her in: the state law is very clear in saying that only the most immediate family may see a prisoner in the death house.

For the last few months, she has left her Sheriff St. apartment for almost no other business but the case of her children. Blost of the day she sets there in the house behind what was once her husband's store.

"It is the same house; I have been living here since-1914."

Ethel Rosenberg and David Greenglass were born there and grew up there; she is at home all day with nothing but the memory of them. For a little while after their arrest, she had Ethel and Julius' two sons to take care of; they have long since gone to a loster home.

"Such fine boys," she says. She will not judge her children or us who condemned them; she does not even now know for sure what they did.

"Who can take a man's lite?" she says. "They say it's communism. communism. communism. communism." What is all this—the crime and the twisted martyrdom—to old Tessie Greenglass, alone on Sheriff St.?

Her eyes with their heavy glasses looked out the window; after a while, she got up and said, "It's a quarter to four, already; I have to go home and cook supper." Someone suggested taking her home. Tessie Greenglass said she did not want to bother anybody; she could take the bus on the corner and be right there.

Tomorrow she would start the effort just to see Julius, whatever happened after that; for the rest of it, the Supreme Court appeal, for all the courts, "There is," she said, "nothing more to say." Nothing more meant to real hope but Julius.

She went downstairs in the elevator and walked in the cold toward the bus, a little red feather in her hat, her coat dark, her shoes old and black and carefully kept, her walk slow and tired and patient. She stopped at the corner and looked in her purse for the dime. She was on her way back to Sheriff St.

"I hope," she said at the end, "that I will see you in a happier time."

That happier time when somebody would have mercy. And, for Tessie Greenglass, there was nobody left to show any mercy except her son-in-law Julius—if he would see her.

DONAL RELEASE Philadelphia, Pale Comber 18, 1970 CC

A chance reging with acquaintances, then to an unscheduled visit to 20 South 12th Street.

Malking on Malnut Street at 19th, I met HENRIETTA OCTROY with JEAN FRANTGIS and a MELEN SOBEL. MENPIETTA introduced mu to JEAN F. and I am sure she did not remember a previous meeting. We walked to Broad Street where MELEN SOBAL left, then balked to 13th and Chestnut where JEAN F. left, and since we were so near to 20 South 12th - went on there, which I had not planned on doing, but afraid I might miss something.

HENPIETTA and I worked on mailing, when a surprised voice addressed me, I could not remember the name until HENRIETTA greeted her - PAULINE LEVIN, CAP - in the conversations between us, I learned they, PAULINE, HENRIETTA and JEAN are Marxists of many years, and have worked on the paper "Daily World" and promoted their ideas among workers and politicians for years.

PAULINE asked H. if she heard anything "more" about DAVID GPEENGLASS, and H. said she saw him shortly after his release from prison, and expected to see his this coming week (Where? I don't know). D.G. is related to Mrs. ROSENBERG, deceased - and HELEN SOBED is related to GREENGLASS - remember the traitors! I do: Small world - then PAULINE tild me she and husband HEPPEPT have severed all connections with SVP - that SWP no longer have anything constructive to offer - they have out grown them.

CONF DENTIAL

NOW DEMANSE PAULINE in tel to die and visit with him, I have better things to do - P. told me PEARL CHEPTOV is working for SWP in Chicago with JOHN BRUSON, but will return here in April -JUDY CITETOV moved back home with her father - said ROPIN MAISEL married all is living in Southwest Phila. - near 50th and Baltimore Tenue. PAULIUE was quite talkative and appeared glad to see , and wants to keep in touch.

HELE EVELEV came in and told me on 12/26, she and members of WILPF re going to a convention in India. Leave NYC via Air India Appling of 12/28, then to London and India for three weeks, and id I know SAME is planning a pilgrimage to Pussia in Spring, ver reasonable rates, could I go along? The cost now to India by the group is only $780. - plus meals and the trip to Pussia equal reasonable, free breakfast details later.

Also FVELYN ALLOY quite 11 at Finstein Med., York and Tabor Foads, has been there a week and surgery for mall bladder planned as soon as her condition permits. Her room number 845.

LAPRY SCOTT left ANUAG to direct se office in Washington, D.C. - STEWART MEACHAM going with lotest to D.C. -12/23 - My neighbors the ESTES are also driving their car to P.C. - noon 19/23.

Please see my News Letter enclosed for January 20, 1971 event.

Glad I stopped by 20 Couth 12th!

In Lewisburg Penitentiary yesterday, David Greenglass met his lawyer, O. John Rogge, who flew there with members of Ser-McCarthy's staff. Arrangements now are being made to bring Greenglass to New York next week to testify at a televised heaf ing. He will be held in a place other than the Federal Roise of Detention, because of the recent assault on Communist leader Robert Thompson there . . . Greenglass showed the visitors his small cell, and said to his lawyer: "I've seen worse rooms than this in the Catskills."

Greenglass Won't Testify Here Life Threatened: M'Carfhy

The life of David Greenglass, convicted A-bomb spy who is scheduled to "tie up the Rosenberg spy ring directly to the Army Signal Corps," has been threatened, it was revealed Tuesday by Sen. Joseph McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

McCarthy said he had learned from a "completely reliable source" that Greenglass' life might be in danger if he leaves the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg to testify before the Senate group and that therefore the committee will go to the prison next week instead of summoning Greenglass here for a hearing as

• "WE DON'T want anyone tak-ing potshots at Greenglass," said McCarthy. He added that Greenglass told the committee's special counsel, Roy Cohn, that he could establish that extremely important material stolen from Fort Monmouth was put into the hands of Soviet espionage agents.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that a man believed to be Abraham Brothman, who has been linked to the Rosenberg spy ring by confessed atom spy Harry Gold, will appear before the committee Wednesday.

It was revealed that Brothman, who recently completed a two-who recently completed a two-year sentence for conspiring to obstruct justice in an espionage probe, has been working at the Techni-Flex Co. plant in Port Jervis, N. J.

A plant official, who asked to remain anonymous, said Broth-man has the confidence of all who know him. Brothman is a chemical engineer. The spokesman said the plant does some work for Republic Aviation, but has no connection with radar production.

"We make some government material," he added, "but nothing of any importance."

McCarthy said about eight witnesses were called Tuesday. He declared he will go to Washington on Friday to quiz members of the Army's loyalty board, particu-larly a suspended civilian member, in connection with the Fort Monmouth investigation.

It was also learned that a key radar and guided-missile research scientist at Fort Monmouth allegedly has been identi-

Assistant Director L. B. Nichols telephoned at 1:00 P.M., 11/4/53, and referred to a story written by EDWARD RANZAL, which appeared in the NY Times, 11/3/53. Mr. Nichols advised that the article was, in effect, deprecating the work of the Senate Investigating Committee. Mr. Nichols advised he had received a "rumble" that, although RANZAL's information was purportedly received from O. John Rogge, actually RANZAL had not obtained the information from Mr. Rogge, but had obtained it from some employee of the NYO of the FBI.

I advised Mr. Nichols that I had no information concerning any employee giving any information to RANZAL, but aht I would have a check made and let him know.

I requested SA Thomas J. McAndrews to make inquiry concerning the possibility of any Agent having furnished such information to RANZAL.

This same date, at approximately 3:30 P.M., I telephoned Mr. Nichols and advised him I had not been able to locate anybody in the NYO who had been in contact recently with RANZAL. I did advise him that supervisor Thomas J. McAndrews had run into RANZAL this moon while at lunch and, thereafter, Mr. McAndrews furnished the following information to Mr. Nichols:-

IDM: HMF

ADDENDUM BY SA THOMAS J. MCANDREWS:

At approximately 3:30 P.M., ASAC Ian D. MacLennan teferred a telephone call from Asst. Dir. L. B. Nichols, Bureau, to the writer. Mr. Nichols had inquired of Mr. MacLennan whether or not there could have been a leak of information from the NYO to Edward Ranzal, reporter of the NY Times, which resulted in the story in the New York Times Deprecating the activities of the McCarthy Committee in its recent inquiries in New York. Mr. Nichols also indicated that Ranzal might not have contacted O. John Rogge for his story as he reported in the article which appeared in the NY Times, 11/3/53.

I told Mr. Nichols that neither I nor any of the Supervisors had been in touch with RANZAL in the recent past. I pointed out to him that RANZAL had covered the U.S. Court House for many years for the NY Times, was known to many Agents of NYO. I also told him that RANZAL had covered the ROSENBERG trial and was entirely familiar with the personalities and the attorneys involved in this trial. I then advised him that on 11/4/53, I had met RANZAL and he had furnished me the following information voluntarily.

CC: NY File 65-15336 (DAVID GREENGLASS)

RANZAL learned from the press and from his contacts in the Court House that Roy Cohn, Chief Counsel, McCarthy Committee; O. John Rogge, Attorney for DAVID GREENGLASS; and others were going to Lewisburg Penitentiary on Thursday, 10/29/53 to interview DAVID GREENGLASS concerning his knowledge of Espionage at Fort Monmouth. RANZAL stated that when he heard this, he reviewed the testimony on DAVID GREENGLASS in the trial of the ROSENBERGS at the office of AUSA James B. Kilsheimer, III, in the Court House. On Friday, 10/30/53, in the evening, he telephonically contacted the office of O. John Rogge, Attorney for David Greenglass, and asked to be advised what information, if any, Mr. Rogge could provide him with concerning GREENGLASS' statements to representatives of the McCarthy Committee. Mr. Rogge was not present in the office, being in South Carolina. RANZAL talked to Mr. FABRICANT, a partner of O. John Rogge; and while they were talking, Rogge called his office long distance. RANZALL, through FABRICANT, interviewed ROGGE, and obtained information as to what material GREENGLASS had supplied the McCarthy Committee on 10/39/53. Mr. Rogge asked RANZAL to hold off printing the story until Rogge had a chance to discuss the matter with him. This, Ranzal agreed to do.

RANZAL pointed out that Rogge had a client who was due to appear before the McCarthy Committee and that he did not care to jeopardize this client's welfare by authorizing a story for RANZAL unless he had time to think it out carefully. I told Mr. Nichols this client was probably FRED JOSEPH KITTY, a figure in the ROSENBERG case. RANZAL then told me that on Monday, 11/2/53, he had contacted Rogge and Rogge had authorized his story which appeared in the NY Times of 11/3/53. This story indicated that the McCarthy Committee had not obtained new information from DAVID GREENGLASS and that at the time GREEN-GLASS had only furnished information to which he had testified in the ROSENBERG trial. RANZAL told me that on 11/3/53, he received a phone call from Mr. Roy Cohn in which Cohn stated Rogge had not approved the story and was angered with RANZAL for printing it. RANZAL told COHN this was not true and thathe had ROGGE's approval for the story. COHN had indicated to RANZAL that ROGGE had called COHN and protested the story. RANZAL, following his talk with COHN, called ROGGE and found that COHN had called ROGGE and protested the story, and not that Rogge had called Cohn.

I told Mr. Nichols that the above was volunteered by RANZAL; that no comments had been made by the Agent and, further, RANZAL had indicated that he had been requested to write an article for the Sunday Times, date unknown, indicating that the McCarthy Committee was not producing new information. This also was received without comment by the Agent. Mr. Nichols was asked whether or not he desired any further material on this and he said he did not. He instructed the writer to be certain that all Agents having business with the McCarthy Committee or the press be most careful not to indicate any attitude for or against the Committee. I told him NYO was aware of the desire of the Bureau for this procedure to be followed closely. He then said the Bureau had to walk down the middle of the road with reference to the McCarthy Committee. I told him NYO would follow the Bureau's instructions in this matter.

SAC. New York

SA THOMAS J. MCANDREWS (

THYNOMERS ESP. R.

At 1:40 P.M., 11/5/53, I telephonically furnished the following information to Assistant Director A. H. Belmont, Bureau.

I told Mr. Belmont that, unsolicited, O. John Rogge, Attorney for DAVID GREENGLASS, had telephonically contacted SA John A. Harrington on this date and had advised SA Harrington that he was calling to ask him whether or not he knew the McCarthy Committee was going to reinterview DAVID GREENGLASS at Levisburg Penitentiary. SA Harrington explained to Mr. Roggee that we had no information available on the movements of the McCarthy Committee and could not be of assistance to him in this request. Mr. Rogge then stated he believed the McCarthy Committee was going to reinterview DAVID GREENGLASS at Lewisburg and that he had not bee invited to participate as yet in that interview. Mr. Rogge mentioned that he was thinking of calling or writing the authorities at Lewisburg Penitentiary and requesting them not to permit DAVID GREENGLASS to be interviewed by any member of the McCarthy Committee unless he, O. John Rogge, was present. To this, SA Harrington made no comment.

Mr. Rogge further stated he had been requested by the NY Times to prepare an article on the McCarthy Committee's interview of DAVID GREENGLASS, which occurred on 10/29/53, and Mr. Roggee intended, in this article, to indicate that DAVID GREENGLASS had told the McCarthy Committee only the information to which he had testified in the trial of the ROSENBERGS. Mr. Rogge further indicated that he was upset by the innuendos appearing in the public press that his client, DAVID GREENGLASS, had information other than that to which he had testified in the ROSENBERG trial. He, as attorney, for DAVID GREENGLASS, thought it was a matter of soncern, in that he did not wish to have DAVID GREENGLASS represented in anything but an accurate light. (It is to be noted that as attorney, he is concerned about DAVID GREENGLASS' parole and release from the penitentiary.) To this, No comment was made by SA Harrington.

Mr. Rogge offered a copy of the article he was preparing for the MY Times to SA Harrington. No committment was made to accept this article, nor will the article be accepted. Mr. Rogge further added that his article will also deal with the role of the Senate Committee in such matters and will express the opinion that matters of espionage are beyond the scope of the Committee and within the investigative jurisdiction of the FBI.

Mr. Belmont said it would not be necessary to furnish the above information to the Bureau in teletype form.

DATE: ///19/53

INE: David Greenglass, was.

Reference is made to the case entitled "SETOMTEL; ESPIONAGE-R", NY filo 65-16382, Bureau file 65-61685, Newark file 100-34455.

The CIC furnished the names of 668 individuals, employees, former employees, and associates of employees at Fort Honmouth, New Jersey and the Federal Telecommunications Laboratory in Nutley, New Jersey, whom they considered suspect because of their associations with members of the Communist Party and known Soviet agents. A file review was conducted on these individuals and as a result, the Newark, New York and Bureau submitted blind memoranda concerning the results of their file reviews. The above individual was one of these considered suspect by the CIC.

The above mentioned memoranda and any additional correspondence resulting from this project are attached and are being incorporated in the individual's case file.

At 9:15 A.M. this date, former Special Agent Frank Carr, now with the McCarthy Committee, telephonically contacted the writer and advised that he had a copy of an affidavit prepared by DAVID GREENGLASS for the McCarthy Committee which affidavit carridesired to furnish this office so that it could be brought to the attention of Mr. Nichols.

I arranged for SA Minihan to go over to Room 1402 to pick up this affidavit. I will contact Mr. Nichols telephonically upon receipt of this. Carly then advised that the McCarthy Committee will call a Colonel from the Signal Corps as the first witness today to testify on the nature of the radar experiments at Fort Monmouth and their security classification. They will then read into the record the CREENGLASS affidavit. The third witness will be JOSEPH LEVITSKY who will probably claim the Fifth Amendment on all pertinent questions.

I advised Bill Cleveland of the Bureau of the above in the absence of Mr. Hennrich who was otherwise occupied at the time of my call. I told the Bureau that I would telephonically contact the Bureau upon the receipt of the GREENGLASS affidavit and any other additional information which might be forthcoming on the hearings of the McCarthy Committee in New York today.

SA Spencer is aware of the above.

Greenglass, Spy Con, Asks Parole

Wishington, April 2 (A).
David Greenglass, 34, key figure in the Rosenberg espionage trial, has applied for parole from the Lewisburg (Pa.) Federal Penitentiary, where he is serving 15 years as an admitted spy. He was sentenced in 1951, Greenglass was the government's star witness in the New York trial which resulted in the conviction of his sister Ethel Rosenberg, and her huband, Julius Rosenberg, on charges of passing U. S. atomic secrets to Russia. The Rosenbergs were executed in June, 1953.

Greenglass, in Prison, 5 Yrs., Loses Parole Plea

WASHINGTON. Apr. 3 (M.—The Federal Parole Board today denied a parole to David Greenglass, who slipped atomic secrets to the Soviet spy ring headed by Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. The eight-member board gave no reason for its denial of Greenglass' parole petition.

Greenglass has served five years of his fifteen-year prison sentence for his part in the Rosenberg spy ring. He freely admitted his espionage activities. The Rosenbergs were executed in Sing Sing in June, 1953, partly on the basis of his testimony.

Greenglass, a brother of Ethel Rosenberg, testified at their 1951 trial that he was recruited into the ring by his brother-in-law. Julius.

He testified that while serving as an Army sergeant at the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic bomb base, he slipped vital secrets to the Rosenbergs and to Harry Gold, Philadelphia biochemist now serving a twenty-five-year term.

Under the law, Greenglass automatically became eligible for parole this month, when he finished one-third of his term. His parole petition will not be reviewed by the parole board for it least one year, unless new vidence is presented that warrants it.

2 Atomic Spies Questioned By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS). -Convicted atom spies Harry Gold and David Greenglass were brought from their penitentiary cells and questioned behind closed doors Wednesday by Senate investigators.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee said that Gold will testify in public on Thursday and Greenglass on Friday in its investigation of the use which Soviet intelligence has made of American citizens.

SUBCOMMITTEE COUNSEL Rogert Morris said both men were "very responsive witnesses" when he questioned them following their arrival from the Federal Penilentiary at Lewisburg.

Gold, who was arrested by the FBI in May, 1950, is serving a 30-year term. He was convicted of relaying atom-bomb secrets from Greenglass and British spy Klaus Fuchs to Russian intelligence.

Greenglass, a former Aimy corporal who was a government of witness against Gold and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, was sentenced to 15 years.

Mrs. Rosenberg, who was electrocuted with her husband in 1953, was Greenglass's sister.

GOLD, NOW 45, pleaded guilty to charges that he was a spy courier, but the Swiss-born chemist said the felt has was "only helping" Russia "obtain certain information that I thought it was entitled to" as a wartime ally of the U. S.

THESE DAYS:

David Greenglass Forsaken by U. S.

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

PPARENTLY one must be an unrelented Communist to enjoy the benefit of a favorable decision, Those who served this party or the government it represents and broke with it, for one reason or another, and aided the FBI or the Department of Justice or a Congressional committee are not even to be given a parole, despite the general tendency of parole boards to be easy on the wicked and to return them to society to do what comes naturally to them.

David Graenglass was the brother of Mrs. Julius Rosenberg who, with her husband, organized the theft of the atom bomb for Soviet Russia. Greenglass and Harry Gold aided the government in getting a conviction of the Rosenbergs who were no doubt important spies. Each was sentenced to fairly long terms. I have been informed that Greenglass was promised that if he testified truthfully he would get only five years. He got 15. I do not know who made the promise.

Parole Bid Rejected

He has recently applied for a parole and was turned down. No reason has been given publicly as to why he was turned down. Were Greenglass a Communist, there would be a Committee to Free Greenglass which would collect funds and hire expensive lawyers and make a great noise, but as he was a government witness he gets no such benefits and no such pressure is exerted in his favor.

Also, the way he is being treated must be a discouragement to others who may want to be government witnesses, as it is obvious that the government does not stand behind those who help it win cases against Communists or spies.

Judge Robert Morris, chief counsel of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, who fights Communists and spies professionally, spoke up to the U. S. Board of Parole in favor of David Greenglass. He said that the sentence of 15 years was unjust; that Greenglass cooperated with the FBI from the moment they first approached him.

CLIPPING FROM The N.Y. JOURNAL AMERICAN DATE: 111 19 1957 عقوره ويولونها بالمؤسر لاستها المهاري الماري المراجع المتعارية

The question then arises whether these various decisions are related to justice or to policy. I am now engaged in reading all the decisions handed down by the courts in cases involving Communists and find curious phenomenon, namely, that a sharp change took place in 1953 which was like a sharp knife cutting through a cheese. Apparently, prior to 1953 courts followed one pattern; subsequent to 1953, courts followed another pattern. The line of demarcation is too noticeable to be meaningless and I am now trying to discover whether there was a reason for the shift of attitude. Also, after the 1956 election, no Congressional committee has been effective in any anti-Communist activity, not even the experienced House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Sen. McCarthy a Victim

I am not discussing the rightness or wrongness of the changed attitude but am reporting a state of mind, an attitude, a characteristic of an era. Senator Joe McCarthy was killed off by the Army-McCarthy hearings and eventually by the act of condemnation, which ultimately destroyed him as a person. Joe would be the last man in the world to want to be regarded as a martyr. As only his most intimate friends and perhaps objective psychologists can know. Joe was a modest man, perhaps not a little frightened by his success, notoriety or acclaim, as one wishes to state it. At his height, he was as important as the President of the United States; at his lowest, he was not even invited to a general and really insignificant White House affair.

The exaggeration of McCarthy's achievements and the vindictiveness after his defeat have had the effect of literally scaring many public figures, particularly Senators, into adopting an apathetic attitude not only to McCarthy's favorite subjects but to anything that may evoke White House displeasure. Thus, a Senator speaking privately against a measure which he sincerely opposed but which he publicly favored, made the point that opposition to the President. offends and embarrasses the President very much, and that once the President has proclaimed his position in a speech or a press conference, a wide difference of opinion, however justified, becomes a personal matter with him and his staff. When asked, what about the separation of powers as stipulated in the Constitution, the Senator replied: "Someday some one will have the courage to break through. I am not that man."

Communists and Justice

To the N. Y. Herald Tribune: I write to call attention to an unfortunate situation that, I believe, is working to our disadvantage in the free-world struggle to resist the Soviet conquest of the world.

The recent Supreme Court decisions are bringing about the liberation of virtually all the unregenerate Communist leaders whom our Department of Justice has caused to be convicted under the Smith

This fact alone is puzzling, in view, of the open boast by the leader of these American Communists, Nikita Khrushchev, that before the twentieth century runs its course there will be a Soviet America.

But even more distressing is the fact that at the same time we are keeping lodged in jail those former Communist collaborators who have been, in sharp contrast to the unrepentant ones who are being set free, helping the F. B. I., the Department of Justice and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Two cases to which I call attention involve David Greenglass and Harry Gold, both of whom are now in Lewisburg Prison. David Greenglass was hélpful to his sister, Ethel Rosenberg, in procuring classified information for her Soviet project, and in that he did wrong and has publicly said so. But as soon as the F. B. I. moved in on the case, he co- 23, 1957.

operated completely, even to the extent of being the government's chief witness against his own sister, who was subsequently executed.

At the time of his testimony he was assured that he would be given only a light sentence for his own involvement. Despite his co-operation, he was sentenced to fifteen years in jail and has now served more than seven years, and has been twice turned down by the United States Board of Parole before whom I appeared twice as a witness in his behalf. David Greenglass has a wife and two children and an aged mother who are pining for his return. He has paid his debt to society and his continued incarceration is working an injustice.

Here we have the spectacle of unregenerate Communists being liberated by the scores to carry on their conquest of the United States, while we are containing the co-operative former Communist collaborators in jail. What a travesty of justice. What kind of inducement is this for others who carry the secrets of Soviet espionage in the United States, to come forward to tell us on Congressional committees and in the F. B. I. what these secrets are? This seems to me to be the worst kind of psychological warfare.

Senators Ask Laws to Lure Reds to West

Washington, May 20 (UP) .- The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called today for new laws to make desertion to the West more appealing to the citizens of

It also called for a law permitting Congressional investigating committees "after consultation with the Attorney General, to bring into the United States aliens whose testimony is desired and whose admission will not endanger the national security."

The subcommittee said the predicament of convicted atom spies Harry Gold and David spies Harry Gold and David Greenglass represents a case in point of Communist defectors who are treated worse than Communists the chose not to cooperate with U.S. officials.

It said several convicted spies already had been released from prison, under U.S. Supreme Court decisions, while Gold and Greenglass who "have cooperated in every way with all federal agencies" still are in prison.

Kin of Rosenbergs In Jail Since 1951

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (UPI). — David Greenglass, brother of executed atom-spy Ethel Rosenberg, will be released from prison Nov. 16, a Justice Department official said today.

Greenglass, thirty-eight, was sentenced to fifteen years in prison for conspiring with the Rosenbergs to steal atomic secrets for Russia. He is serving his sentence at the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penltentiary.

As star witness in the spy case. Greenglass heiped convict his sister and brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg. The couple were electrocuted in 1953 for giving atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

Admitted Lesser Charge

Greenglass' was permitted to plead guilty to the leaser charge of conspiracy. He testified he gave a description of the atomic bomb to Julius Rosenberg while working as a technical sergeant at the Atomic Research Center in Lps Alamos, N. M., in 1945.

He started his prison sentance on July 6, 1951. Under the law, the mandatory date for his release is May 1, 1961. But a Justice Department official said he will be released Nov. 16 "because of credits for good behavior."

David Greenglass

Although he is not being released by action of the Federal Parole Board, Greenglass will remain under Federal supervision until Nov. 5, 1965, and will have to report periodically to a parole officer.

The Parole Board turned down two Greenglass requests for parole earlier in his prison term.

Two co-conspirators in the Rosenberg case, Morton Sobell and Harry Gold, are serving thirty-year sentences.

The Rosenbergs were the first Americans ever put to death for espionage by an American courtin peace time. They were seit-tenced to death in 1951, but the case continued before the Lours until almost the very moment on their execution.

Rosenberg Accomplice Out of Jail

One of the three all-but-forgotten accomplices in the celebrated Rosenberg spy case will be freed today after nearly a decade in prison.

David Greengless, now 38, was a brilliant technician and an Army sergeant, when during wartime he picked up data on the A-bomb and slipped it to the Rosenbergs.

HE WAS SENTENCED to 15 years in Jail, and has served nine years and four months. Today, he is being freed from the Federal House of Dentention on parole, his sentence cut down for good behavior.

The defection of Igor Gouzenko, a Russian code cierk in Ottawa, Ont., gave authorities in this country the tip on the syp ring involving Greenglass, his sister Ethel Rosenberg, her husband Julius, and two others, Morton Sobell and Harry Gold.

Greenglass admitted he picked up information about the A-bomb in Los Alamo; N. M., and passed it to the Rosenbergs. He said Julius had given him money and an escape route to a Communist country when authorities began to close in on them, but he decided not to run. Instead, he testified against the Rosenbergs. They were both executed at Sing Sing in 1953. Sobell and Gold each drew 30 years.

Another member of the ring, physicist Klaus Fuchs, was seized in England in 1950 and imprisoned there. Since his term ended, he has gone to East Germany.

Forgotten

By OLIVER PILAT

David Greenglass, 38, perhaps the most ordinary and understandable of the odd and illassorted Americans who turned over atomic seems to the Russians, returns to private life today.

Even before his scheduled release this morning from the Federal House of Detention, 427 West St., after serving 91/2 years of a 13-year term, he issued an appeal for no publicity. Through his lawyer, O. John Rogge, he said:

Though the lives of Green-glass and his wife, Ruth, are rooted in the Lower East Side of Manhattan, it was reported that they hope to take their two children, now 14 and 10, to some new community, possibly in the Southeast, if they can find employment there.

in prison.

Attorney O. John Rogge hus-tled the short, 38-year-old Greenglass to a waiting taxicab. Faced by about 60 reporters and photographers, they stopped just long enough for Rogge to declare that there would be statement "now or later."

Greenglass cringed in the cab as hostile shouts came from a crowd of longshoremen and truckers. He pulled the collar of his blue topcoat up nearly to his eyes and peered out from under the brim of his pulled-down fedora.

Helped Send 2 to Chair

"Drop dead, you lousy Communist," shouted one of the group.

"Drive him off the pier, right into the river, the dirty Red rat." another yelled at the taxi driver.

The taxi drove off after some difficulty caused by vehicles which had stopped while their drivers watched.

Greenglass, former Brooklyn machinist and Army technician, helped send his sister, Ethel, and her husband, Julius Rosenberg, to the electric chair as atom spies. He pleaded guilty to complicity in the sheft of U.S. atomic secrets and was the government's fev witness at the Rosenberg trail. The Rosenbergs were electrocuted at Sing Sing in June, 1953.

Served at Federal Pen

Grenglass was sentenced to 15 years, but got out earlier of good behavior. He served his time at the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary, from which he was transferred last weekend.

Convicted with the Rosenbergs and sentenced to 30 years was Morton Sobell, a radar expert. Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist, received an 8-to-30-year sentence for his role in the conpiracy. Sobell and Gold are still in prison.

Greenglass was late in leaving because Rogge was a half hour late in arriving at the House of Detention. The freed man wore a worn blue suit and carried a mall blue zipper hag.

He didn't speak on emerging, but just shrugged.

The Curious Case Of David Greenglass

Should Atom Bomb Spy Be Free After Only Nine Years?

By RUTH REYNOLDS

THERE is disagreement concerning justice in the recent release of David Greenglass from a federal penitentiary after serving approximately nine years of his sentence.

Some hold that by giving top secret information on atom homb lenses to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who forwarded the facts to Russia. Greenglass was just as guilty as they of espionage in wartime aud, therefore, deserved to die with his sister and brother-in-law in the electric chair. As minimum punishment, in their opinion, the 15-year sentence he received should have been doubled.

Long Overdue

There are others who say the release of Greenglass was long overdue, that he was only a dupe of his relatives and he was hadly used by the government. Without his testimony as a prosecution witness, the Rosenbergs might not have been convicted. In exchange for his evidence Greenglass was promised a sentence of no more than five years. But his judge thought he deserved more. Apparently members of the federal parole board thought so too, for they turned down his applications six times without stating a reason.

His story properly begins in 1939, when his sister, Ethel, 23, and his addred brother-in-law, Julius, 21, joined the Communist Party. David, then a 17 year-old learning to be a mechanic, became a member of the Young Communists' League. He listened eager in Julius and Ethel talked of the superiority of Russian socialism over U. S. capitalism.

The nation heard shocking news by radio on the Sunday afternoon of Dec. 7. 1941—the Japanese had bombed Pearl Harbor. Among the millions who listened were three later to become known to David—30-year-old Dr. Klans Fuchs of London, 285 par-old Harry Gold of Cincinnati, a d 23-year-old Morton Sobell of Washington.

Fuchs, a physicist who had fled Hitler's Germany, was heart and soul for the Soviet, although he was planning to take out British citizenship. Gold, a junior in biochemistry at Cincinnati's Xavier University, had worked for 10 years as a Soviet spy in the United States. And Sobell had become a Communist Party member in 1939, stong with Rosenberg, his classmate in electrical engineering at City College in New York.

In the 21 months which followed Pearl Harbor, Fuchs, Gold, Sobell and the Rosenbergs continued their work for Russia. Sobell, already employed in the Navy Ordnance Eureau, became a radar expert. Julius worked as a civilian engineering inspector in the Army Signal Corps. Ethel attended party meetings.

David, who had become a good mechanic in the family-owned machine shop, narried the former Ruth Printz. He had not joined the Communist Party, chicily, as he was to say later, because he was too lazy to accept party discipline. He'd "rather lie in bed on Sanday morning than deliver the Daily Worker from door to door." But his brother-in-law was still his hero. Freus 12/4/60

Then David was drafted into the Army, with the prospect of battle service ahead. However, by July, 1944, he was able to tell Ruth that he was being kept in the U.S. on an assignment so top secret he didn't know what the undertaking was.

First, he went as a machinist and technical sergeant to the Manhattan District Project at Oak Ridge, Tenn. Then, he was transferred to Los Alamos, N. M., where he was made assistant foreman in a machine shop easting molds for lenses. He was told as much as necessary about his job, but nothing more-for, with the opoperation of Britain and Canada, the United States had started production of the atom bomb. Russia, the other major ally in World War II, was excluded from the secret.

Pa Nov. 29, 1941—three months after Tech. Sgt. Greenglass' transfer to the Los Alamos project—Ruth arrived in Albuquerque for their second wedding anniversary-and something else.

She told David, "Julius says he's doing what he always wanted to do-he's giving information to the Soviet Union." Julius knew David was working on the atomic bomb, and he wanted all the information David could give, so it could be sent on to Russia. Julius' argument was that if all nations had atomic information, no one power could threaten others with the bomb.

He Was Scared

"I ean't do it, Ruth," David said at first, because he was scared. But later, his admiration for Julius overcame his fear. He didn't want his hero to fail at anything he tried.

So, David gave Ruth a description of the Los Alamos plant, the approximate number of workers and the heretofore secret names of scientists connected with the project. Ruth memorized this information and repeated it to Julius,

Two months later David returned to New York on leave. He gave Julius a number of sketches of a flat-type lens mold being used in the atomic experiments. He also gave his brother-in-law a list of 20 to 25 possible spy recruits at Los Alamos. "I recognized them by their Communist Party catch phrases," he was to say much later.

At the end of his leave, David returned to Los Alamos. He didn't know that Dr. Fuchs was there, and Harry Gold, too. In February, 1945, Ruth got a government job in Albumgrque with the Office of Price Administration and found in apartment there. David com-muted the 100 miles from the bomb Gold came to see Greenglass in Albuquerque. "I have come from Julius Have you any information for me?":

David again drew sketches-this sime of an improved lens mold on which he was working. He described in writing how this lens was used to trigger the homb. Also, he added to his list of promising spy recruits. Gold included this information in a thick packet of atomic bomb secrets he had just received from Dr. Fuchs and took the whole to Julius.

Atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Now the war was done-but espionage was not. In New York, on furlough, in September, 1945. David gave Julius a sketch of a cross-section of the Nagasaki bomb. "Very good!" his hero complimented

FEBRUARY, 1948, found Greenglass honorably discharged and back in New York with his wife and baby, Steven. He had thought the family machine shop would provide him with a comfortable living, but somehow, by legal but sharp practice, Julius had become sole owner. There was quite a lot of resentment over Aithough there has been no mention here of security work done by representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Scotland Yard, they were exceedingly busy. The fruits of their activity first showed in 1947, when 14 Communist Party leaders were indicted by a federal grand jury in New York. But the Rosenbergs felt they had nothing to worry about - natil they heard that Dr. Fuchs, arrested in London on Feb. 3, 1950, had given the FBI names of 124 Americans with whom he worked, 12 of them spies.

Rosenberg hurried to David's apartment in Rivington St., pressed $1,000 on him, urged him to go to Mexico, and prdvided him with cloak-and-dagger instruc-

"When you reach Mexico City," Julius directed, "write a letter to the Soviet ambassador. Say something favorable about the Soviet role in the United Nations and sign your letter 'I. Jackson.'. Three days later, stand beside the statue of Columbus, with a travel guide in your hand. "You will be approached by a stranger," Julius continued. "Say the statue is magnificent and that you are from Oklahoma. He will say 'There are more beautiful statues in Paris." he will give you money and a passport. Go to Vera Cruz and take a ship for Sweden. When you get to Stockholm, follow the same routine at the statue of Linnaeus. You will be taken to Czechoslovakia."

Ruth in Hospital

Greenglass told his brother-in-law that he couldn't possibly leave New York then. Ruth, expecting her second child, had been hadly burned when she upset a gasoline stove and was in a hospita!.

David used the $1,000 to pay bills. He felt he was justified in keeping the money. He had, thus far, received only $500 (from Gold) for helping Julius.

In April, when Ruth was a little hetter, Rosenberg again urged David to flee. Julius figured (correctly) that Fuchs would identify Gold as a courier, and that, sooner or later, Gold would identify Greenglass as an informer, and David might mention Rosenberg.

Gold was arrested on May 23, 1950. The next day Julius hurried to the hospital to see Ruth. Her haby had been born, but she was still hospitalized because of her burns.

"David will be next if you don't get to Mexico," he warned. "I can't travel with a 10-day-old hild," she objected.

"My doctor says you will be all right you take canned milk and boil the water," Julius assured his sister-in-law. "Get a statement from him saying you've all been inoculated."
"I would not ask a doctor to falsify," said the young woman, who had a curious code of ethics.

Now Resemberg handed David $4,000, wrapped in brown paper. David give this to another relative, with instructions what to do with it "if anything happen ."

On June 15, two FBI agents knocked at the Greenglass door. It took David some time to answer, because he was in the kitchen preparing the baby's formula. One of the agents said, "We are trying to locate materials, lost, misplaced or stolen at the Los Alamos project. You worked there, didn't you?"

"Yes," answered David. "But I can't help you . . . I know nothing about it."

After more questioning, the agents asked if they might look around the apartment.

"I have nothing to hide," said David, go shead."

The agents departed, carrying 24

enapshots of Greenglass and his wife.
"This is the man I contacted in Albuquerque," charged Harry Gold after studying the pictures.

Greenglass was arrested July 16. 'I'd have run away, or committed suicide, if it were not for my wife," he said. That day, the relative turned the $4,000 over to O. John Rogge, retained as a lawyer for Greenglass. That day, Greenglass talked, and the next evening FBI agents called on the Rosenbergs just as they were putting their young children to bed in their Knickerbocker Village apartment. Thus was the first U. S. married couple arrested on spy charges.

On Aug. 18, Julius, David and Ethel were indicted on counts of conspiracy to commit espionage in wartime. Also indicted were two fugitives, Sobell, the radar expert, and Anatolia H. Yakovlev, Russian vice consul in New York during 1944-46. Under the Espionage Act of 1917, the penalty, if the defendants were found guilty, could be anything from 30 years to death. Late that month fobell was picked up in Mexico. Yakovlev na long since returned to Russia.

Harry Gold pleaded 1 lilty and, in October, David Greenglass took the said step.

Why?

The obvious answer was that X wanted to save his own skin, but Green glass denied that his motive was selfish lie said, much later, that his belief in Communism began to crumble in 1941 when he realized he was stealing for "devastation on a tremendous scale. I'm not a violent man and when I think o the things I did by non-violence, I won-der at myself."

At any rate, Greenglass agreed to be a government witness.

THE TRIAL of the Rosenbergs and Sobell began on March 6, 1951, in Manhattan before Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman. The government called 26 witnesses, including Ruth and David Greenglass.

In cross-examination. Rosenberg: lawyer, Emanuel H. Bloch, sought to show that Greengiass, who had flunked eight out of eight subjects at Brookly: Polytechnic Institute, was not sufficiently equipped scholastically to steal and relay complex atomic data.

Judge Kaufman out short this line of questioning, reminding the larors that David confessed stealing, and passing on, top secret on terial. The indictment didn't specify that the material, once stolen, had to be accurately delivered. said the judge.

Bloch then attempted to show that Greenglass had lied to get revenge on his prother-in-law because of the family machine shop deal, and because Rosel hers, on one occasion, refused to lead him $2,000.

When Rosenberg took the stand he made a blanker devial of everythingevery single sails thing. He never dreamed of asking anyone to furnish him secrets of national defense. He didn't even know his beather-in-law cas at Lor Alamost He knew nothing about Russi except what he read in the New York pepars.

Both Wary

But he and Ethel were extremely wary when cross-examined by the prosecutor, U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol.

Mrs. Rosenberg accused her brothes of lying when he said she typed up the material he gave Julius about atomic bombs and national defense. "I once loved my brother," she said, "but I'd be pretty unnatural if I hadn't changed."

In summation, Bloch said the wrong couple were on trial and he castigated Greenglass in a curious way. "He loved his wife more than he loved himself." Bloch shouted. "He was willing to sacrifice his sister and her husband to save his wife. Look at that terrible spy," Bloch waved toward F'hel, "and then compare her with Mrs. Greenglass, who came here til dolled up, arrogant, an eager bedver.

"Not only are the Greenglasses selfconfessed spies, they are mercenary spies! They'd do anything for money. They'd hurder people for money and they are tiying to murder people for murey!" Bloch charged.

Of Rosenberg, his lawyer spoke ten-derly, saying he was "like a schnook [hupe]" obligingly doing things for Greenglass.

Saypol took quite the opposite view. He said the Rosenbergs, so long admired and adored by David, "dragged a voung soldier into the sordid business of betraying his own country."

Counsel for Sobell did not deny that the radar expert was a low order spy, but he did stress that not one witness linked Sobell with the atom spying.

Out Overnight

In conclusion, Judge Kaufman reminded the jurors that the fact that Russia was an ally was immaterial; that the defendants handed top secret information over to anybody was material.

The jury was out overnight. Then they pronounced the defendants quilty. Judge Kaufman retired to pray for quidance.

In the end, he sentenced Greenglass to 15 years; Sobell and Gold to 30 . . .

and the Rosenbergs to death.

For two years and three months, the Rosenbergs fought for their lives. Their case was reviewed 16 times, on various points, by the U.S. District Court and seven times by the U.S. Court of Appeals. Seven times the U.S. Supremer Court turned down petitions for review and twice the President of the United States turned down appeals for clemency.

Ethel's mother fought, too. At Sing Sing she begged her daughter to "talk like David did."

"You're not my mother!" Ethel raged. "I don't want anything more to do with you. You're as had as Dave!"

The Rosenbergs were electrocated on June 19, 1953.

"She's no daughter of mine," sobbed the mother, and she refused to sit Shiva (to observe the traditional Jewish mourning) for Ethel .-As the years passed. Greenglass and Gold, both in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., talked with many federal investigators, and several times appeared at Senate subcommittee hearings.

"Before bringing myself to testify," David once said, "I thought quite a while, And, at times, after testifying, I was sorry I testified—because these people were my flesh and blood. I felt affection for them, and I still do."

Then, turning on his dead kinfolk, he said, "But if these people had not wanted to be martyrs they could have just put up their hands and said 'Stop!' and told the truth. It's hard to be called a mur-derer by people," said Greenglass, refer-ving to himself, "but to deliberately martyr pourself for an erroneous cause is the most hypocritical thing a person can do."

Well, David Greenglass is free new. Sonte people say he paid too much for his crime; some say he paid too little. But such is the attitude of Americans toward traitors, even toward those who regret their deeds, Greenglass probably will keep on paying and paying. At least, he has a long wait to go to get into the good graces of his countryment under his own identity.

lorton Sobell was a radar expert and a Red spy.

The Rosenbergs paid with their lives.

Harry Gold was courier for ring of Soviet spies.

Ruth Greenglass was go-between for her husband.

. David Greenglass passed on sketches of secret lens mold.

On 10/12/73, RUTH GREENGLASS contacted SA and asked whether it was advisable to contact Judge IRVING KAUFMANN. She was advised that it was not considered proper for her to do so in view of the fact that he was the trial judge in the ROSENBERG case. However, the decision would be her's. She then asked should she contact Judge IRVING SAYPOL and indicated that she was very reluctant to do so. Again she was advised that the decision was her's, however, Judge SAYPOL could (not recommend that she contact She then said that she would contact O. J. ROGGE telephonically and advised the results of the contact. Mrs. GREENGLASS contacted the office again and advised that she had been in touch with attorney O. J. ROGGE and advised him that she would not cooperate by participating in the TV broadcast of Channel 13 in any way. She also told him that at the present time she was a private citizen and if Channel 13 went ahead with their broadcast and exposed her identity and residence that she would take whatever action was appropriate against them for violating her right of (b)(7)(c) privacy.

She then stated that she would discuss the matter with her relative who is an attorney.

On 12/13 and 14/73, Supervisor R. DENNIS of the Bureau telephonically contacted the NYO and inquired whether the Bureau (NYO) had been instrumental in aiding GREENGLASS to change his name and secondly had we promised to protect his new identity. He indicated he was under pressure from the Department to make available to ALVIN GOLDSTEIN, TV producer for Channel 13, copies of the interviews of GREENGLASS by Bureau Agents. The Department was taking the position that these should be made available to GOLDSTEIN unless the Bureau could present reasons why not. Further, they alleged that it was not the Department who would be giving these interviews publicity, but Channel 13.

Mr. DENNIS was advised that on the first point the GREENGLASS family were being harassed by threatening and abusive phone calls. In collaboration with their attorney, O. JOHN ROGGE, it was decided they should change their name and address. This was done also to protect the children. It was also-understood since we were in at the inception of this plan that the Bureau would not divulge the new identity. This was reaffirmed on numerous occasions throughout the years.

It was also pointed out that several members of the ROSENBERG apparatus had never been prosecuted because of a lack of corroborating witnesses. Should one or two be found, GREENGLASS might again be a witness, but he is still in the status of a confidential informant. The violations being wartime espionage, the Statute of Limitations does not apply.

Mr. DENNIS expressed his gratitude and stated he will do all in his power to protect the GREENGLASS family.

On 1/31/74, Supervisor RICHARD DENNIS of the Eureau advised the writer he had contacted JOHN A. MINTS, Inspector in Charge, Office of Legal Counsel and received the following opinions regarding action the Bureau might take in the forthcoming Impact TV special:

- l) The Bureau would have no legal status for bringing an injunction against Impact to prohibit their disclosing subject's current identity. Such injunction would have to be brought by DAVID GREENGLASS.
- 2) The Bureau would be ill-advised to contact Impact with a request that GREENGLASS's identity not be disclosed since this could result in Impact making the Bureau's request known either in the documentary itself or otherwise and a relationship between GREENGLASS and the Bureau might be misinterpreted as other than the actual one that exist.

Supervisor DENNIS advised that ALVIN GOLDSTEIN, the Impact director, had indicated he did not intend to make GREENGLASS's current identity and address known but this has not been confirmed in writing.

TV's Newest Folk Heroes—the Rosenbergs

By BENJAMIN STEIN

The most unlikely set of heroes in the whole bizarre history of television "journalism" is emerging. They are Julius and Ethel Resemberg, the couple who were found guilty of conspiracy to pass atomic secrets to the Soviets during a trial in 1951 and were executed in 1953.

On Jan. 28, the ABC-TV network showed a two-hour-long dramatization of the trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg which made the two atom spies seem to be Heidi and Tom Sawyer with a generous mixture of Romeo and Juliet thrown in. The point of the creators of the show, apparently, was that Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were two harmless, intensely lovable people caught in a web of jealousy and perjury and national hysteria through which their innocence shone forth like a beacon light.

The most penetrating tool of the television propagandist's art—showing only one side of an issue, set the mood throughout. The Rosenbergs were shown modestly denying any involvement in the atomic theft conspiracy. Whenever they took the stand, they answered in a stendy and clear tone, making just the right amount of eye contact to show their sincerity.

Their accusers and the prosecutors were cast perfectly as television heavies—either swarthy and bloated or thin and bloodless, never normal.

The TV script skimmed lightly over the unanimous finding of guilty by a jury of the Rosenbergs' peers and its consistent affirmance by higher courts including the Supreme Court, which refused to order a stay of execution. Every time the Rosenbergs took the rifth amendment as to their possible Communist affiliations, the commentator-narrator reminded the audience that the pair were exercising a constitutional right.

No mention was made of the world consequences of the Soviets' early possession of the a'om bomb. Moreover, the program made a selective cut of the letters the Rosenbergs exchanged while they were awaiting execution in prison: "I love you and the children" was the gist of the touching exchanges we heard on the air. Missing were the sections of the letters to each other that were loaded with Communist jargon. Yet surely if we are invited to look beyond the factual evidence produced at the trial, these things are relevant.

The result was that a person unfamiliar with the case would surely have concluded that the Rosenbergs were innocent victims of a legally sanctioned lymphone.

A tai ofully done piece of work by the National Public Affairs Center for Television has been produced by Alvin Goldstein, a former CPS nameman and his colleagues. It is "The Unquiet Death of Julius and Ethol Rosenberg" and will be aired on Feb. 25. This show is a chronology of the events leading up to the conspiracy, the trial and the execution. It features interviews with the participants in the case, the lawyers for both sides and the jurors.

A narration written by the producer links the parts. But even in this program, the commentary is a veritable parody of impartiality. The Communist affiliations of the Rosenbergs were formed as a result of their witnessing the "complete failure of unbridled capitalism" or words to that effect, says the narrator. To prove the point that the capitalist system "lays waste to peoples' lives," the producers call upon a man the was a Communist during the 1930s to say how poor his family had been.

The producers clearly intend to show the Rosenbergs not only innocent, but heroic. They are, however, undone by their own thorougnness. One particularly eloquent juror recalls that he had a hard time finding a woman guilty of a capital crime. Then he says, "But I thought of how what she had done might lead to the death of my children, and millions of children all over the world, and maybe even her children."

It is puzzling indeed to speculate where all the interest in the Rosenbergs comes from after 20 years. Two books, one pro and one anti-Rosenberg recently have been published. But the incentive for the television shows may be a bit different.

Alvin Goldstein said he was inspired to do "The Unquiet Death" by his work in rebroad-casting the Watergate hearings for educational TV. He reasoned that if people within the government had done illegal things to their political opponents in 1972, perhaps they had also done them in 1951. Perhaps, he thought, the government had also do their political of the Rosenbergs because of their political views.

Mr. Goldstein realizes that there was a great deal of factual evidence to convict the Rosenbergs, but he says that is essentially irrelevant. Guilt or innocence of the charge is not the real issue, he says. The real guts of the matter is that the Rosenbergs were being tried for their political views "... and that is what is happening today," he says.

It may be that people are being pilloried for their political views today, but it's attogether likely that the victims may not be the ones Mr. Goldstein thinks they are. Could there be an analog to the termenting of people without regard to their guilt or innocence, but solely on the basis of a superheated political climate of retribution, in what we've seen an the TV news in the last 12 months? Who else could play the role today of all those wilnesses before congressional committees in the 1950s who were trotted out to generate public-...... but some of the defendity I ers of the President in the Watergate hearings?

But television has not yet made that scemingly obvious connection. With shows like the ones about the Rosenbergs, television exener-ates those found guilty by a jury of their peers with due process of law. With its "news" shows, television can mete out the punishment of embarrassment, humiliation, loss of friends and status, in a word, all the things the now-despised congressional committees of the '50s once dispensed Or, as in the case of the Rosenbergs, included a whole generation, unfamiliar with the facts of the era or their trial, the approximation that the U.S. government murdered two innovent people.

This leads to a further point about the Rosenbergs' TV renaissance. The producers of "The Unquiet Death" think that it is important to see shows about the late '40s and early '50s because "... that was when our current leaders were formed and they are still running things."

Richard Nixon is shown as a young Senator, talking about Communists at the State Department. The point of that snippet, one is told, is that the same repressive forces were at work then and now. That viewpoint is undoubtedly sincere and widely held, especially in the circles that might watch "The Taquiet Deeth".

Death."

"Repression" is an odd point for the producers of "The Unquiet Death" to be making, hough. This show which is bitterly critical of the American system of economics, justice and government was funded 100% by federal government money through the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Some repression!
